HANDS ACROSS THE SEAS

In recent years, there has been growing interest among Gallaudet College graduates in employment and volunteer positions serving deaf persons in other countries. In response to this interest, a program, The Deaf Reach Across the Seas, will be presented in the College Auditorium on November 26, at 8 p.m.

The program will be hosted by Steve Mathis, director of Gallaudet's newly formed International Center on Deafness. Opportunities for the deaf in the Peace Corps will be discussed by Velma Linford, Peace Corps representative.

Frances Parsons, who has done extensive traveling, lecturing and work with the deaf throughout the world, will make a presentation, including slides, of her experiences. For example, her travels this past summer took her to the Philippines, Thailand, India, Burma and Iran where she lectured, conducted workshops and courses, and consulted on the use of total communication in the classroom.

Tickets are $2 for general admission and $1.25 for students. All proceeds will go toward the construction of the first school with modern facilities to utilize total communication in the Philippines. Four recent Gallaudet graduates have also been involved with the work of this new school. They are Daisy Slagle and Pauline Spanbauer, who are with the Peace Corps, and Linda Cox and Guy Vollmer, who are volunteering in Manila.

If you are unable to attend the program; but you are interested in giving your support to this project, please send your contributions to Frances Parsons.

AMONG OURSELVES

--The Annual Editor's Award from the Journal of Speech and Hearing Research was presented to Ellen Danaher and her co-authors, Mary Jo Osberger and James Pickett, Sensory Communication Research Lab, for their article: "Discrimination of Format Frequency Transition in Synthetic Vowels."

INFORMATION AT YOUR FINGERTIPS

It is here! The Gallaudet Almanac! Can't remember the class year of a friend, the score of a Bison football game, the date a building was constructed? Stop looking! It is all in the Almanac. Three hundred pages of useful, but difficult to find, facts have been painstakingly collected.

Get your copy while they last from the Alumni and Public Relations Office. Only $6.95!

ON THE GREEN is published each week for the faculty and staff of Gallaudet College by the Office of Alumni and Public Relations.
